SECTION B: 50 MARKS

Questions 51 to 55 carry ten marks each.

51. Read the passage carefully and then answer, in full sentences, the questions that follow.

One day, Mr Kaka took his P.7 class on a tour. He wanted to talk to them about the importance of trees. "Look at that landscape," he said. The pupils looked at the hill, then the plantations down the valley. "Some years ago, that hill was all covered in a forest. As people increased in number, they went on cutting more and more trees. They wanted to get wood fuel and land for building houses and cultivating crops. Soon, there were no more trees." he narrated.

"What do you think is the danger of cutting down trees?" he asked. "Cutting down trees causes soil erosion," Juma answered. "That's a brilliant answer!" said Mr Kaka. In addition, he explained that trees influence weather and climate by helping in rain formation. They also provide us with shade. He said that the reason crop yields were becoming poorer and poorer was because the soil had lost its fertility. Mugalu asked, "How can we protect the environment?" One pupil said by digging terraces to control soil erosion. The teacher thanked her and added that tree planting was the best method of protecting the environment. He said trees prevent wind from blowing away the top soil and the roots hold the soil in place when it rains. We went back to school at 3:00p.m. Our teacher told us to write about the tour the next day on Friday.
